Italy: Operation Vertical bio - 11 suspects under house detention

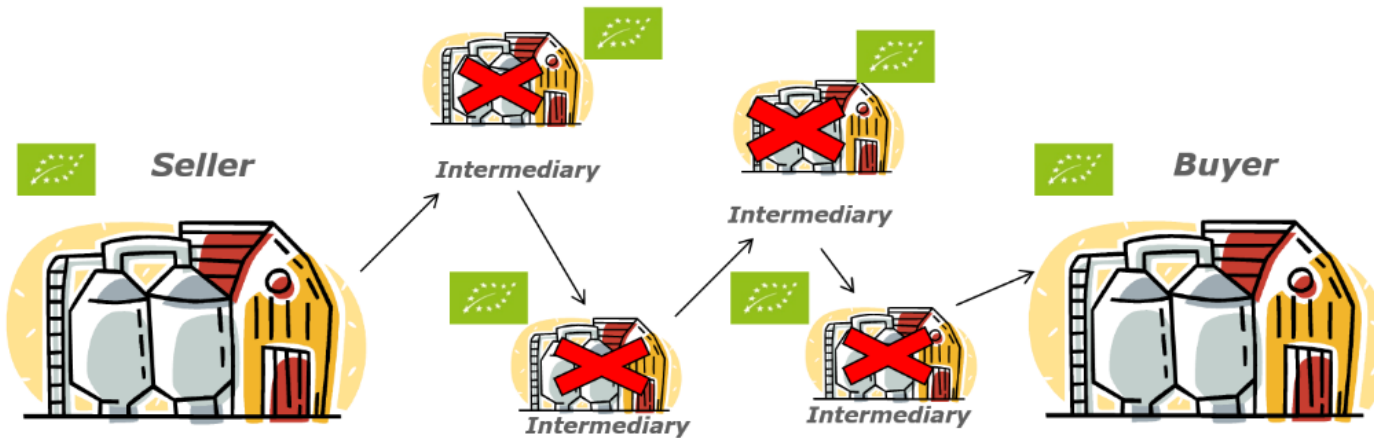

03.03.2014 by Redaktion (comments: 0)

In December 2011, a big case of organic fraud terrified the public in Europe. It was proved that large amounts of corn, soybeans, wheat and other products came from conventional farms but were sold as organic. Main players at that time were an Italian control body and Italian dealers (see our report). In mid 2012, the first sentences were passed. According to Information from the Italian organic association FederBio, a total of 17,000 tons of goods were involved. The fraudulent activities took place between October 2007 and August 2008. A special working group has now found new evidence that shows that over a number of years a gang of criminals was able to undermine regulations and certification systems. Although there had been warnings, the Italian Ministry for Agriculture did not act at that time.

(Picture: Paolo Carnemolla, President of FederBio, gives his statement)

- 17,000 tons
- Fake certificates
- Conventional grain from non-EU countries
- Was to be used as animal feed
- Committed fraud over a number of years
- Criminals organised fraud
- 3 individuals sentenced to a total of 9 years and 4 months in prison (2012)
- 9 individuals under house arrest, 4 banned from business activity, €35 million in seized property & real estate and corporate accounts & investments (2014)
- Biozoo's control licence was revoked (2014)
